

HEALTH

AT A GLANCE

McDermott Will & Emery's Health Law Department counsels leading organizations in every major sector of the health care industry on regulatory and business transaction issues. With skilled teams knowledgeable in every aspect of the industry, we are able to represent a variety of health clients: medical device and pharmaceutical manufacturers and distributors, biotechnology companies, hospitals and health systems, large physician group practices, ambulatory surgical and other outpatient care clients, diagnostic companies, nursing homes and home health agencies, and health payors.

Our health lawyers focus their practice in one or more areas important to industry clients while maintaining flexibility to support other lawyers on a variety of matters.

Experience

With 30 years of experience serving the health care industry, our international Health Law Department is one of the world's largest and most prestigious. Our group is interdisciplinary, bringing together all of the regulatory, transactional, finance, real estate, restructuring and tax knowledge necessary to deliver effective, efficient and focused services to our health industry clients and those entities seeking to invest in the health industry. We advise in a broad spectrum of business challenges, including the following areas:

- Billing, collection and charge strategies
- Biomedical research compliance
- Biotechnology, device and pharmaceutical regulation and transactions
- Due diligence for health care transactions
- Fraud and abuse, Stark and other regulatory matters within the context of health deployment
- Health care supply chain programs, including general counsel and advocacy work for leading group purchasing organizations (GPOs)
- Joint ventures involving physicians, hospitals, payors and other participants in the health care industry, and compliance with applicable laws, e.g., Stark, anti-kickback, antitrust and payor regulations
- Legislative and regulatory advocacy and development analysis
- Mergers, acquisitions, affiliations, dispositions and restructurings
- Organizational arrangements for disease-specific initiatives that are regulatory compliant, such as cooperative pediatric programs and heart hospitals
- Residency training and other teaching programs for academic medical centers
- U.S. and local attorney general challenges
- U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and other product regulation
- Cross border implications of health industry transactions and business operations
